WHERE IN BOWMAN?

An itinerant music man collects $250 on a Piano and Disappears.

A. D. Whitson, of the Clark-Letcher-Whitson Music company, of this city and El Paso, was in Santa Fe yesterday camping on the trail of one Chas. Bowman, who was at the capital some weeks ago and turned a remunerative trick.

It seems that Bowman came to Santa Fe, says the New Mexican in commenting on the case, and represented himself as agent for the Knight-Campbell Music company, of Denver. Among those he called upon were Col. Thos. M. Jones, of the United States Indian school, and he offered a certain make of fine piano for $250, about two thirds their actual cost.

Col. Jones agreed to take a piano. Then Bowman went to Albuquerque and calling upon the Clark-Letcher-Whitson Music company, he represented that he was connected with the purchasing department of the United States Indian school and desired to inspect a piano. He picked out an instrument costing $250 and had it sent by freight to Santa Fe, the company paying $25 freight in advance.

Then Bowman came here and received the piano, and turned it over to Col. Jones for $250, for which amount the latter holds his receipt. After securing the money Bowman fled. Mr. Whitson claims that the railroad company is in a measure responsible for his loss, in that it failed to demand the bill of lading which Bowman had ordered sent to the bank here along with the draft for $250, the price of the piano.

That Bowman's affair.

The item published in the Citizen of yesterday, clipped from the Santa Fe New Mexican, in relation to the Bowman matter, is entirely wrong. When Mr. Whitson was in Santa Fe last Monday to look after the above affair, he states that he never saw or talked to a reporter or any one else connected with the New Mexican, nor said a word to any one except his lawyer concerning the Bowman affair, and why the New Mexican should come out with a statement that he had said that the railroad company were in a measure responsible for the loss of the piano is something he cannot understand.

Another statement that the company paid $25 in advance is also a falsehood. The piano was shipped in the name of the Clark-Whitson-Letcher Music Co., and the bill of lading was sent through the First National bank of Santa Fe, but the piano was given up without the bill of lading, which still remains in the bank at Santa Fe and the firm, says Mr. Whitson, will of course hold the railroad company for the face value of the piano.

At the Cross Institute.

The Citizen understands this afternoon from secondary sources, that some kind of drill exercises took place at the Cross Military institute this morning.

There were present Col. W. G. Marmion, of Laguna; Major W. H. H. Llewellyn, of Las Cruces; Louis Hanning, of Las Lunas; G. K. Neher, Ben Myers and others of Albuquerque, all having children at the institute.

From Mr. Neher it is learned that the club swinging by the caletts was a grand exhibition, and the little fellows showed careful training. The drill by the school are equipped anything better seen by these present, Col. Marmion and Major Llewellyn pronouncing it the finest they ever saw performed, and was the equal of any military institute in the east.

Mr. Neher took a peep throughout the building, and reports to the Citizen that the rooms are clean and tidy, and that the caletts are compelled to take a bath daily. He is enthusiastic over the success of the institute, and states that Col. Goss ought to be encouraged by our citizens.

Sidney R. Grumble, of White Oaks, is the young lieutenant; Robert O. Marmion, of Laguna; second lieutenant; C. R. Llewellyn, of Las Cruces, orderly sergeant; Fred Hanning, of Las Lunas, sergeant; Edgar K. Rice, of El Paso, sergeant; Louis Hanning, Jr., of Las Lunas, drum major; S. M. Chase, of Springer; J. M. Dough and Robert K. Newman, of El Paso; Chas. Zeiger, Jr., Sam Vann, J. Myers, Louis Zeiger, Eddie Zeiger and Willie Neher, caletts.

THE CITIZEN, like many of our readers, was not aware that any exercises were going to take place at the institute. Col. Goss failing to make the announcement through the papers of the city.

The Soldier Club.

This afternoon, the manager of the Albuquerque Braves baseball club secured from the local Superintendent of the Atlantic & Pacific, a rate of $5 from Fort Wingate to Albuquerque and return, for base ball club of the fort to visit Albuquerque on Sunday, June 10 and play the local club. A letter will be mailed to the soldier club this evening, telling them to get ready and come.

Dr. Roberts, secretary of the American Invalid Aid society, made a prospecting trip across the mesa, into and up the valley of the Rio Puerco as far as Rocky Ford, returning by way of Cerrillos and the middle road to this city. The doctor was happily surprised to find a half acre of fertile land, living in the old Mexican village, now called "Fruitvale," among them being several families of American and English people, all seemingly contented and happy, and in a model of sunshine and contentedness beyond the average vision of these times. She has never visited town since first settling there.

The doctor expresses himself as well pleased with the climate, soil and scenery, and is of the opinion that when the colonization company can succeed in holding sufficient water to irrigate the land, the soil of which is unsurpassed, then and not till then, can settlers hope to have self-sustaining homes.

That at times there is abundant water to supply the demand is beyond doubt, and that a dam can be constructed at Rocky Ford, at a cost not to exceed $30,000, is feasible. That reservoir in canvas can be constructed is certain, but when the cost is considered, and the allowances for the great evaporation—notwithstanding the superior soil, climate, the fine drinking water from springs, and the fuel supply—the company will have to show that they can furnish water for irrigation equal to the demand, before the average settler will undertake to go into farming or fruit raising as an occupation.

The doctor further states that for certain kind of lung troubles that valley is equal in climate to any section of country he has ever visited, and if the patient is willing to go there, remain and occupy his time with the sheep herders, doing enough to pay for his board, or by camping out between Fruitvale and the Jemco river, fishing in that stream for trout and hunting and prospecting for the mineral, which abounds—in short, dry air, which keeps out the heating, dry air, he will be almost sure to recover his health. And when patients are contented to live that kind of life, their chances to recover health are far greater than when, like so many, they insist upon living in the towns and do so little to assist the healthful climate in restoring them.

"There are," says the doctor, "too many who not only do not do their best to get well, but are actually doing those things that are an hindrance to their recovery. As soon as they arrive in a climate which is so K for them, they like loading about hotels, saloons, etc., smoking, reading and breathing foul air, instead of hunting around on the outside, assisting the climate to help them."

Sprinter Morris.

Thomas Morris, the celebrated California foot racer, who beat the record for a 100 yard foot race at Golden, Ind., during the World's fair, covering the distance in 9.3 seconds, passed through the city last night, en route to Trinidad, Col., and the Montana circuit of horse racing.

During the stop of the train at the depot, he met H. S. Knight, trainer of the Albuquerque horse running team, and informed the latter that he was defeated in a 100 yard foot race at Los Angeles on last Monday by a runner going under the name of Pulley. Morris stated that Pulley and himself scored for over an hour, and he got cold and stiff, his opponent winning by at least two feet.

The race was on the square, he losing himself over $1,000. Mr. Morris is the owner of the celebrated pacer, Jangler, who was here during the races of last week, and who was handled by Thos. Raymond. Jangler is entered in all the big racing events of the Montana circuit, and Mr. Morris will join Mr. Raymond and his great pacer at Trinidad.

One Skipped.

Mattie Hall, colored, who has been in the county jail for the past few weeks waiting the action of the next grand jury in regard to an adultery charge preferred against her, skipped the city late yesterday afternoon, but was captured at East Las Vegas early this morning. About a week ago she was released from jail on a bond of $250, bondsmen being Lawyer Thomas C. Montoya. Late yesterday afternoon when the Colorado Springs, Colo., horses were loaded into a car at the depot to be shipped to the Trinidad races, Mattie took passage in the car with Butler and several others of her colored friends who accompanied the horses. Last night she was discovered missing from her usual haunts in the Acre, and suspecting that she had skipped, Policeman Harris investigated and found that she had gone north. He telegraphed to officers at Las Vegas, and when the freight train reached there early this morning she was arrested. H. W. Loomis, deputy United States marshal, went north this morning after the adulterous prisoner and will return with her this evening.

Robbed by Actors.

There is a young man at the city jail who is being kept alive by the nourishment of liquor, and occasionally he gets a little bit too much. Last night he got more than his share and became quite hilarious. He could see objects floating around in all directions and little birds sitting in various portions of the room.

Policeman Harris attempted to pacify him, when he announced that he was having considerable trouble with four local actors, who were in the room and insisted on robbing him. The policeman informed him that all of Capt. Cudiff's actors were gentlemen and at home in bed; not one of them would do him the least harm, and after being fully assured of the fact that the actors would not molest him he became quiet and rolled off into a sound sleep. He is all right to-day.

At the University.

President Floyd Davis, of Socorro, will deliver the annual address to the students of the University on Monday evening, May 28, on "The Trend of Modern Education." Besides the address there will be music, essays, and the Debate drill by the students.

Tuesday evening the graduating exercises will be held when six will graduate from the full course of the normal department, and will receive diplomas, entitling them to the degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy. As this will be the first commencement exercises of the university they should be of interest to the public in general. All are very cordially invited to attend.

On Monday, June 3, the summer school for teachers will open and continue for six weeks. The course will be very thorough and helpful for teachers or those preparing to teach. Classes will be formed in the sciences if enough students attending desire to take them. For particulars address G. S. Ramsey.

Dr. S. F. Scott, Blue Ridge, Harrison Co., Mo., says: "For whooping cough Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is excellent. By using it freely the disease is deprived of all dangerous consequences. There is no danger in giving the remedy to babies, as it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by T. H. Burgess & Son, druggists."

BELEN AND TOME.

"Tome" Sends a Hatch of Sheep Interesting Items.

Belen, N. M., May 22.

Editor Citizen.

We are a little scarce of news items at present down this way, but one thing is worthy of mentioning and that is the fine result of the lambing season. The writer has questioned several sheep owners and they all give nearly the same answer: A great number of lambs—the shearing will turn out satisfactorily. And now if some kind providence would intercede and consign the Wilson bill to where other democratic schemes have gone in the past, no doubt the former good conditions would soon prevail.

Though business is extremely dull yet, I can note an improvement in other ways. The people are becoming more industrious, they are closer to work than they used to be and are cultivating more land, and as the credit system has been greatly reduced there is less dependence placed on living by obtaining credit from this or that store, which will prove not only a benefit to the poor classes but also to the merchant.

On my trip down the valley from Tome, the writer took a good look at the growing crops, and can report them as growing fine and promising an abundant harvest.

While at Belen I looked at John Becker's new artificial lake that is to be as soon as the water is turned into it. It will be used for boats and will also be stocked with fish. It is situated on the road leading from the town of Belen to the depot.

Mr. Becker has had a great deal of work done to make the lake, and it will be an ornament to the town as well as a source of pleasure for Mr. Becker's family and friends.

Wm. Franz, the leading merchant of Los Chaves, a village between Los Lunas and Belen, gave a party to his friends last Sunday, among whom I noticed, Messrs. Chas. Bruhn, Dominio, Ferris, Douglas, Ortega, Munstman, Veleitich, Chr. Schewe, Powers, all of Belen. H. Gossan and family arrived later, after a short excursion down the river on the new ferry boat, "Willie Gossan."

The game of "Scot" was played under the trees in the orchard back of Mr. Franz's store. The guitar was played to the tune of several songs in German, Spanish and English. A keg of beer was kept constantly flowing during the day. Excellent cake was furnished by Mr. Franz. Late in the afternoon, two were saddled, buggies hitched and all started for their homes happy and well satisfied. Other similar parties will be given by others during the summer.

The Acme Club Minstrels are still rehearsing for the entertainment to be given soon.

A new postoffice has been established at Los Chaves with Wm. Franz as postmaster.

The Catholic church at Tome is now being repaired. It has been generally overhauled inside and whitewashed, and will soon be newly plastered outside and other repairs made which will make the old church look like new. The church is a very old one and has a history of a tragedy, which happened in olden times, of an onslaught made by the Indians on the inhabitants during a feast day and which has already appeared in print. Rev. J. Ralliere has been the pastor for more than thirty years at this church, is well liked and they are all well pleased with him. He also holds services at the Peralta church.

The Fire Boys.

The Albuquerque Volunteer Fire department held a meeting at the Ferguson Hook and Ladder company quarters last night, there being present about thirty-five active members. After the transaction of routine business, the matter of removing one or two of the fire companies to the Perfecto Armijo building on Tijeras avenue, outside of the business portions of the city, was conservatively but fully discussed. The fact was patent that a majority of the members present strenuously objected to be removed from their present convenient and comfortable quarters, after they have expended considerable money out of their own funds for fitting up their quarters, but none intimidated or suggested a rash move. A motion finally prevailed that a committee of three, consisting of the chief, assistant chief and one other to be selected by the chief, be appointed to confer with the fire committee in regard to the removal. The chief appointed as the third member of the committee John Jacoby, foreman of the Ferguson Hook and Ladder company.

A rumor had gained currency late yesterday afternoon that at the meeting of the fire department some moves toward disbanding would be made, and several gentlemen, non-members of the department, appeared at the meeting. As no such move was intended and as the meeting was strictly a firemen's gathering, the gentlemen were politely requested to retire, which they did. One of the gentlemen was Alderman Brockmeier, who the firemen have found one of their best friends in the city council, and who, the Citizen is pleased to learn, objects in any way to crippling the present efficiency of the fire department.

The Ferry Injunction Case.

A motion to dissolve the temporary injunction restraining Col. T. F. Moore interfering in any way with the Hunt & Westwood ferry was argued before Judge Collier this morning. Catron & Spiese were counsel for defendant and Judge Wm. D. Lee for plaintiff. The injunction was continued in full force, and R. W. D. Bryan appointed to take evidence in regard to damages claimed, etc.

His Views.

Dr. Aubright, alderman from the First ward, met Chief McCright and Foreman Knight of the fire department this morning, and in his conversation he desired to go on record as one of the aldermen bitterly and strenuously opposed to any move that would depreciate the present high standing of the fire department, and also said that if the present quarters of the various companies were further desired, after an explanation of the proposed removal to the Perfecto Armijo building was fully made to them, he would acquiesce in the wishes of the firemen. The doctor fully appreciated the valuable volunteer services of the fire department, and reiterated that the citizens of Albuquerque ought to feel proud of her fire department, the boys having stuck together closely for the past several years and worked harmoniously together. The doctor was thanked by the two firemen present, and they assured him, although an opposition would be made to a removal from their present quarters, that no rash move would be made until the matter was fully considered. The sentiments expressed by the doctor are the same as those expressed recently by Alderman Brockmeier.

DR. SYMINGTON DEAD.

His Death at Baltimore, Md., on Wednesday Night.

Dr. John Symington, who left this city a short time ago for Baltimore, Md., having arrived here from his home at Santa Fe, died at the John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, at 9:15 o'clock Wednesday night. His death was the cause of consternation and hardening of the liver. He was well known in this city, in fact all over New Mexico, and his many friends will join with the Citizen in extending condolence to the bereaved wife and relatives. The following account of his life is taken from the New Mexican:

Dr. John Symington was born in Baltimore, Md., about forty-eight years ago. He belonged to an excellent family. His father, Col. John Symington, was for many years connected with the ordinance department of the United States army and remained loyal to the Union during the war. Young John, however, ardently espoused the cause of the south, ran away from school and joined the Confederate army as a private at the age of 16.

He was discharged through much hard work in a Confederate battery for several years and contracted chronic diarrhoea, from which he never fully recovered.

At the close of the war he returned to Baltimore and resumed his studies. After completing a thorough academic course he graduated with honor at the Baltimore medical college and devoted several years to the practice of his profession in the hospitals of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Thus he became a thoroughly equipped physician and surgeon.

Then he settled in St. Louis, where he met with so many discouragements that for a while he seriously meditated enlisting in the regular army. Just at this critical time in his life, Col. Smith, formerly medical director of the department of Arizona, came to the rescue and recommended the disheartened young physician to move to New Mexico. This advice was followed and in 1867 Dr. Symington crossed the plains from Kansas City to Santa Fe with a bull train. Among his companions on this long and tiresome trip were Mrs. Chaves and her young son Francis, afterwards sheriff of Santa Fe, who was assassinated on Guadalupe street bridge on the night of May 29, 1892. The friendship then formed between Dr. Symington and Francis Chaves was enduring.

After his sojourn in Santa Fe Dr. Symington settled at Albuquerque, where he successfully practiced his profession for four or five years. There he married Miss Armijo, daughter of Hon. Ambrosio Armijo, with whom he lived most happily until death claimed him. He returned to Santa Fe in the spring of 1873 and has resided here ever since.

Besides the sadly bereaved widow, Dr. Symington leaves a namesake, a bright young man of 17 years, who is attending school in Ekeker, N. H. Life insurance to the amount of $20,000 testifies to the great and self-sacrificing affection he cherished for his wife and boy. His other living relatives are an unmarried sister in Baltimore and a brother in St. Louis. It is presumed that the body will be buried at Baltimore.

Tome.

The Garfield Road.

El Lavelle, who is one of the responsible bosses building the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern railroad from Bowie station to Globe, Arizona, returned to the city last night. He states that Wm. Garland, the contractor, is the president and general manager of the new railroad, and that he is pushing work at the rate of two miles per day, expecting to reach Solomonville on the 4th of July, when the event, the approach of the iron horse will be appropriately celebrated by the people of that town. Mr. Lavelle will return to his duties in a few days.

The Watcher of the Night.

When of the repeated kind experienced by persons troubled with insomnia, soon bring about an alarming condition of the nervous system. The shaking hand, confusion of the brain, lapses of memory and loss of appetite indicate, with terrible precision, the ravages produced by loss of sleep, which if unremedied, must destroy mental equilibrium altogether. No better and thorough nerve exists than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Common sense and experience point to its early and steady use in cases of insomnia. It strengthens the weak and relaxes the tension of overstrained nerves, which, by the way, a resort to unmedicated stimulants will never do permanently, while the effect of such excitants is most prejudicial. Under the influence of this benign invigorant, appetite, digestion and sleep return, and bodily comfort and health are alike promoted. It is invaluable in chills and fever, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatic and kidney trouble.
